The Supreme Court Economic Review applies world-class economic and legal scholarship to the work of the Supreme Court of the United States. Contributions cover economic analysis of the events that generated the Court’s cases, its functioning as an organization, the reasoning the Court employs in reaching its decisions, and the societal impact of these verdicts. SCER contributors stimulate interest in the economic dimension of the Supreme Court and explore solutions for its many complex problems. The series also publishes special symposium issues that build on SCER’s traditional focus on the intersection between law and economics. The contributors include renowned legal scholars, economists, and policymakers.

For additional information about the Current Scholarship Program, please contact JSTOR or visit the website: http://about.jstor.org/csp

Contact JSTOR
JSTOR
AJ Collected Books Dept.
Church Street Station
P.O. Box 7159
New York, NY 10008-7159
U.S.A.

New in 2013! Chicago Journals e-Reader Editions
Beginning in 2013, individual subscribers and members will be able to download individual issues of UCP journals for iPhone, iPad, Kindle, or Android.

Visit journals.uchicago.edu/ereader for information and updates.
Bridging the gap between historical, empirical, and theoretical, American Political Thought is the only journal dedicated exclusively to the study of American political thought. Interdisciplinary in scope, APT features research by political scientists, historians, literary scholars, economists, and philosophers who study the foundation of the American political tradition. Research explores key political concepts such as democracy, constitutionality, equality, liberty, citizenship, political identity, and the role of the state.

Editor-in-Chief: Michael Zuckert
Symposium: Law and Courts (Organized Section of the American Political Science Association)

The new peer-reviewed Journal of Law and Courts (JLC) aims to be the premier journalistic forum for the law and courts intellectual community in terms of quality and scope of articles and ease and diversity of audience. Dedicated to combining intellectual sophistication and promoting communication across traditional boundaries, JLC will not emphasize a particular theoretical or methodological orientation. JLC publishes articles that employ highly rigorous arguments and methods to tackle theoretical or empirical questions in ways that make them accessible to scholars with differing perspectives.

Editor-in-Chief: David E. Klein

THE SUPREME COURT REVIEW

Since it first appeared in 1960, The Supreme Court Review has aimed to provide a balanced and authoritative survey of the implications of the Court’s most significant decisions. SCR is an in-depth and independent appraisal of the Supreme Court’s interpretation of American law. SCR is written by and for legal academics, judges, political scientists, journalists, historians, economists, policy planners, and policymakers.

I recommend that the library subscribe to the following:

- American Political Thought only
- American Political Thought and Journal of Law and Courts
- AU Journal of Law and Courts
- SC Journal of Law and Courts
- Supreme Court Economic Review
- Supreme Court Economic Review (print only)
- Supreme Court Review (online only)

I recommend the journal for the following reasons:

- Reference: I refer to this journal frequently to find new research articles related to my work.
- Student Reference: I will be referring my students to this journal regularly to assist their studies.
- Benefit Library Collection: My assessment of the journal’s content and direction strongly encourages the acquisition and full department, faculty, and student needs.
- Own Affiliation: I am a member of the journal’s editorial board; I support the journal strongly and use it regularly in my work. I will regularly recommend articles to colleagues and students.

Additional Comments:

To: Librarian/Library Acquisition Committee

Department/Position:

Email/Phone:

Department/Position:

Website: journals.uchicago.edu • Email: subscriptions@press.uchicago.edu

I recommend that the library subscribe to the following:

- American Political Thought only
- American Political Thought and Journal of Law and Courts
- AU Journal of Law and Courts
- SC Journal of Law and Courts
- Supreme Court Economic Review
- Supreme Court Economic Review (print only)
- Supreme Court Review (online only)

I recommend the journal for the following reasons:

- Reference: I refer to this journal frequently to find new research articles related to my work.
- Student Reference: I will be referring my students to this journal regularly to assist their studies.
- Benefit Library Collection: My assessment of the journal’s content and direction strongly encourages the acquisition and full department, faculty, and student needs.
- Own Affiliation: I am a member of the journal’s editorial board; I support the journal strongly and use it regularly in my work. I will regularly recommend articles to colleagues and students.

Additional Comments:

To: Librarian/Library Acquisition Committee

Department/Position:

Email/Phone:

Department/Position:

Website: journals.uchicago.edu • Email: subscriptions@press.uchicago.edu
AMERICAN POLITICAL THOUGHT
A JOURNAL OF IDEAS, INSTITUTIONS, AND CULTURE

Editors: Michael Zuckert

Published in association with the Notre Dame Program in Constitutional Studies and the Jack Miller Center

Bridging the gap between historical, empirical, and theoretical, American Political Thought is the only journal dedicated exclusively to the study of American political thought. Interdisciplinary in scope, the journal is the only APT journal dedicated exclusively to the study of American political thought. Interdisciplinary in scope, APT features research by political scientists, historians, literary scholars, economists, and philosophers who study the foundation of the American political tradition. Research explores key political concepts such as democracy, constitutionalism, equality, liberty, citizenship, political identity, and the role of the state.

Editor-in-Chief: G. M. Miller

Symposium: Law and Courts (Organized Section of the American Political Science Association)

The new peer-reviewed Journal of Law and Courts (JLC) aims to be the premier-journal for the law and courts intellectual community in terms of quality and scope of articles and law and diversity of audience. Dedicated to combating intellectual fragmentation and promoting communication across traditional boundaries, JLC will not emphasize a particular theoretical or methodological orientation. JLC publishes articles that require rigorous arguments and methods to tackle theoretical or empirical questions in ways that make them accessible to scholars with differing perspectives.

Editor: Diane L. Horan

Journal of Law and Courts (JLC)

The new peer-reviewed journal is written by and for legal academics, judges, political scientists, journalists, historians, economists, policy planners, and sociologists.

American Political Thought

Interdisciplinary in scope, American Political Thought features research by political scientists, historians, literary scholars, economists, and philosophers who study the foundation of the American political tradition. Research explores key political concepts such as democracy, constitutionalism, equality, liberty, citizenship, political identity, and the role of the state.

Editor-in-Chief: G. M. Miller

Symposium: Law and Courts (Organized Section of the American Political Science Association)

The new peer-reviewed Journal of Law and Courts (JLC) aims to be the premier-journal for the law and courts intellectual community in terms of quality and scope of articles and law and diversity of audience. Dedicated to combating intellectual fragmentation and promoting communication across traditional boundaries, JLC will not emphasize a particular theoretical or methodological orientation. JLC publishes articles that require rigorous arguments and methods to tackle theoretical or empirical questions in ways that make them accessible to scholars with differing perspectives.

Editor: Diane L. Horan

Journal of Law and Courts (JLC)

The new peer-reviewed journal is written by and for legal academics, judges, political scientists, journalists, historians, economists, policy planners, and sociologists.

JOURNAL OF LAW AND COURTS

Bridging the gap between historical, empirical, and theoretical, American Political Thought is the only journal dedicated exclusively to the study of American political thought. Interdisciplinary in scope, APT features research by political scientists, historians, literary scholars, economists, and philosophers who study the foundation of the American political tradition. Research explores key political concepts such as democracy, constitutionalism, equality, liberty, citizenship, political identity, and the role of the state.

Editor-in-Chief: G. M. Miller

Symposium: Law and Courts (Organized Section of the American Political Science Association)

The new peer-reviewed Journal of Law and Courts (JLC) aims to be the premier-journal for the law and courts intellectual community in terms of quality and scope of articles and law and diversity of audience. Dedicated to combating intellectual fragmentation and promoting communication across traditional boundaries, JLC will not emphasize a particular theoretical or methodological orientation. JLC publishes articles that require rigorous arguments and methods to tackle theoretical or empirical questions in ways that make them accessible to scholars with differing perspectives.

Editor: Diane L. Horan

Journal of Law and Courts (JLC)

The new peer-reviewed journal is written by and for legal academics, judges, political scientists, journalists, historians, economists, policy planners, and sociologists.

THE SUPREME COURT REVIEW

Since its first appeared in 1960, The Supreme Court Review has been for providing a sustained and authoritative survey of the implications of the Court’s most significant decisions. SCR is an in-depth interpretation of American law. SCR is written by and for legal academics, judges, political scientists, journalists, historians, economists, policy planners, and sociologists.

Editors: Dennis J. Hutchinson, David A. Strauss, and Geoffrey R. Stone

Since its first appeared in 1960, The Supreme Court Review has been for providing a sustained and authoritative survey of the implications of the Court’s most significant decisions. SCR is an in-depth interpretation of American law. SCR is written by and for legal academics, judges, political scientists, journalists, historians, economists, policy planners, and sociologists.

LIBRARY RECOMMENDATION FORM

To: Librarian/Library Acquisition Committee

Department/Position:

Email:

I recommend the library subscribe to the following:

- American Political Thought online only: $800 solo; $900 bundle

- Journal of Law and Courts online only: $800 solo; $900 bundle

- The Supreme Court Review online only: $810 solo; $920 bundle

- Supreme Court Economic Review online only: $810 solo; $920 bundle

I recommend the journal for the following reasons:

- Reference: I refer to this journal frequently for new research articles related to my work.

- Student Reference: I will be referring my students to this journal regularly to assist their studies.

- Benefit Library Collection: My assessment of the journal’s content and direction is very high. I refer to this journal frequently for new research articles related to my work. I will be referring my students to this journal regularly to assist their studies.

- Own Affiliation: I am a member of the journal’s editorial board. I support the journal strongly and use it regularly in my work. I will be referring my students to this journal regularly to assist their studies.

- Other:

Additional Comments:

Email/Phone:

Department/Position:

To:

Website: journals.uchicago.edu   Email: subscriptions@press.uchicago.edu
study the foundation of the American political tradition. Research explores key political concepts such as democracy, constitutionality, equality, liberty, citizenship, political identity, and the role of the state.

JOURNAL OF LAW AND COURTS
A journal dedicated exclusively to the study of American political thought. Interdisciplinary in scope, the Journal of Law and Courts (JLC) will not emphasize a particular theoretical or methodological orientation.

THE SUPREME COURT REVIEW
Since its first appearance in 1960, The Supreme Court Review has been the premier annual critique of the Supreme Court and its work, keeping at the forefront of the origins, reforms, and authoritative survey of the implications of the Court’s most significant decisions.

LIBRARY RECOMMENDATION FORM
To: Librarian/Library Acquisition Committee
From:
Department/Position:
Email:

I recommend that the library subscribe to the following:

American Political Thought online + Print $26
Journal of Law and Courts online + Print $104
The Supreme Court Review online + Print $104

I recommend the journal for the following reasons:

- Reference - I refer to this journal frequently for new research articles related to my work.
- Student Reference - I will be referring my students to this journal regularly to assist their studies.
- Benefit Library Collection - My assessment of the journal’s content and direction warrants its acquisition and its distribution department, faculty, and student needs.
- Own Affiliation - I am a member of the journal’s editorial board. I support the journal strongly and use it regularly in my work. I will regularly recommend articles to colleagues and students.
- Other:

Additional Comments:
The new peer-reviewed Journal of Law and Courts (JLC) aims to be the premier journalistic venue of the law and courts intellectual community in terms of quality and scope of articles and breadth and depth of audience. Dedicated to combating intellectual fragmentation and promoting communication across traditional boundaries, JLC will not emphasize a particular theoretical or methodological orientation. JLC publishes articles that employ highly rigorous arguments and methods to tackle theoretical or empirical questions in ways that make them accessible to scholars with differing perspectives.

ISSN: 0081-9557.
E-ISSN: 0736-9921.
2013 volume covers 2012.
324 pages/volume.

The Supreme Court Review

I recommend the journal for the following reasons:

- I refer to this journal frequently for new research articles related to my work.
- Benefit Library Collection: My assessment of the journal’s context and direction strongly suggests the acquisition will fulfill department, faculty, and student needs.
- Own Affiliation: I am a member of the journal’s editorial board. I support the journal strongly and use it regularly in my work. I will regularly recommend articles to colleagues and students.
- Other:

Additional Comments:

I recommend that the library subscribe to the following:

- American Political Thought only: $207.00.
- American Political Thought + Supreme Court Review: $244.00.
- Journal of Law and Courts: $134.00.
- Supreme Court Economic Review: $128.00.

I recommend the journal for the following reasons:

- Reference - I refer to this journal frequently for new research articles related to my work.
- Benefit Library Collection - I will be referring my students to this journal regularly to assist their studies.
- Own Affiliation - I am a member of the journal’s editorial board. I support the journal strongly and use it regularly in my work. I will regularly recommend articles to colleagues and students.
- Other:

Additional Comments: